NEW FEATURE

Dorothy Davis Advises You On Your Personal Problems

Do you need counsel in regard to your personal problems? If so, this new feature in The Record is for you.

A graduate psychologist, Dorothy Davis, joins the staff of The Record this week and hereafter will help you with your problems.

A letter addressed to her in care of this paper, 3317 San Jose Avenue, will receive her prompt attention.

The letters NEED NOT be signed.

Following are some of the letters already received by Dorothy Davis.

* * *

Dear Dorothy:

My husband is very good looking and so I don't know whether I should trust him or not. We have only been married three months. We decided when we were first married that we would each have a night out alone once a week.

My friends tell me I shouldn't let him out by himself like this because he is too good looking. I haven't caught him doing anything suspicious yet, but I worry awfully when it is his night out. I don't enjoy my night out alone at all thinking all the time of what other woman he might be with on his night out.

If I tell him that we should stop our nights out alone, he'd ask why and I can't tell him that I worry about other women, because he wouldn't like that, but I'm losing weight and worrying myself sick thinking about him and other women. What should I do?

A Loving Wife

Dorothy Replies

Dear "Loving Wife":

Marriage should be based on absolute trust. The very fact that your husband is very good looking is an excellent reason for your having implicit trust in him. A good looking man has his choice of many, many women and consequently he marries the one who suits him exactly. And once married he doesn't have to bolster up his confidence in his ability to attract women by continuous flirting as an unattractive man would have to do.

So I'm sure you can put your mind at rest in regard to your husband's faithfulness. And do continue with your plan of each having one night for your individual entertainment each week. It shows a respect for each other's right as separate human beings which is so important to the success of a marriage.

Vital Question

Dear Dorothy:

For the past three years I have been going with a boy of twenty, I am twenty-three, we get along beautifully, enjoy the same sports, amusements, etc. I feel he would make an ideal husband, but woe is me, he has never as much as hinted marriage. Do you think I should continue going with him exclusively or should I go with others and forget him? Do you think I am too old for him?

Any advice you could give me would be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
Marriage-minded

Good Advice

Dear "Marriage Minded":

There is more to the founding of a successful marriage than just the compatibility of enjoying the same sports and amusements. Futhermore, a boy of twenty is hardly in a position either emotionally or financially to embark on anything as serious as marriage.

The fact that you have been such good friends for three years may mean that you are building up the basis for something stronger and deeper, but time alone will be the answer to that question. In the meantime, enjoy his companionship as you have in the past, and also accept

Ah, Paradise

Gals Have No Troubles At Jeff

By DOROTHY DAVIS

Heaven can wait! That's the cry of the gals at Jefferson Union high school this semester. And why?

The enrollment statistics are the reason. To even a disinterested person the total of 538 boys to 488 girls leaves a balance of 50 boys.

Yes, the statistics say simply 50 more boys than girls, but in this case, as is so often the case with figures, their factual commutation can only hit at their emotional significance. And the most important of this is undoubtedly not the problems of the high school teachers in adjusting class schedules to take care of less domestic science students and more mechanical arts pupils.

The reaction of the high school girls to this delightful state of affairs is of primary consideration. They are young yet and so, naturally, they are of the opinion that 50 additional boys mean just that many more boys to be divided among 488 girls who they figure will already have one boy apiece. This school of thought gives every 9.76th girl a spare date. And so the girls are elated. Who knows? Each girl may be the 9.76th girl. Yes, youth is a time of hope.

Other Side

And now for the boy's side of the picture. It stands to reason it is not so bright. We might even go so far as to say that at the supposed dreary prospect of possibly being, conversely, a boy who has to share every 9.76th girl with another movie-taker-outer, even the atom bomb might look good to them.

As we said before, it is only because they are so young that high school boys and girls put this strikingly naive faith in figures. But let us throw the light of proved psychological facts on this current high school situation.

First of all, we will use an illustration to emphasize our point. If there were one hundred men and one hundred women stranded on a desert island, would that mean one man for every woman? It definitely would not!

On the other hand, it would mean that approximately 95 per cent of the men would be in love with 35 per cent of the women. Of the remaining five per cent, two per cent of these would be too conceited to be in love with anyone but themselves and the other three per cent would not be able to find their type among the 100 women.

Ah Love

Now for the women's side of this illustration. About 99.98 per cent of the women would be in love with 80 per cent of the men. That leaves one woman .02 per cent undecided.

Just as this psychological analysis is true on a desert island,

The Stomach Pump Set

Children Show Strange Taste

Strange, indeed, are the appetites of the very young, as shown by records of Daly City and Broadmoor police departments this week.

Aspirin

Aspirin tablets head the popularity list with four different children swallowing a total of 64 tablets and consequently requiring attention at the Junipero Serra hospital Tuesday and Wednesday.

Children who consumed these tablets were Robert Dal Burno, 2 years old, of 71 Mateo avenue; Steven Pollak, 2 years old, and Michael Pollak, one year old, of 99 Fieldcrest drive; and Barbara Kearns, 73 Fieldcrest drive.

Nail Polish

Johnny Demarco, 20 months old, of 217 Abbot street, settled for nail polish Tuesday and had to be rushed to the Junipero Serra hospital. Johnny drank the nail polish at the home of Peter Bogdan, 166 Thiers street, where he had been left by his mother. Bogdan took the baby to the hospital for treatment.

Turpentine

In the Broadmoor district, Kathleen Folery, 20 months old, of 1203 Nimitz drive, drank some turpentine on Saturday and was rushed to the hospital in Colma by Officer Harry Erown of the Broadmoor police.

FIRST AID CLASS ENROLLMENT OPENS

The first of a series of first aid classes will begin in Daly City next month, Officer Dean Wood, first aid instructor, said today.

Those interested in taking the fundamental course are urged to contact Officer Wood by sending a post card to Room 23, City Hall, 75 Wellington Avenue.

When the class opens, those who have expressed interest in joining will be notified, Dean Wood said.

"RED LIGHT" DRIVER LANDS IN S. M. JAIL

A Daly City resident, who went through a red light in San Mateo, recently spent five days in jail.

He is Robert M. Montano, 23, of 231 Peoria street. He was given the stiff sentence by Judge Francis W. Murphy of San Mateo's municipal court, Thursday.

Montano's record showed four prior convictions this year, and "many" since 1943, Judge Murphy said. The judge suspended his license for six months, and gave him credit for three days served.

Drive To Gather Clothes For Korean Refugees Opens Here This Week

A three weeks drive to gather clothing for Korean Refugees will open in the Daly City area, Friday, October 26.

The campaign, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur Heyden, will afford local residents a fine opportunity to give their used clothing for a good cause.

"In Korea the need for clothing is growing more urgent hourly," Mrs. Heyden said today. "There are now more than 10,000,000 men, women and children homeless and destitute. They are innocent victims of world forces beyond their control."

Distribution centers in Korea have requested the following items, in quantities that run into millions: shirts, sweaters, coats, bathrobes, trousers, overalls, dresses and skirts, stockings, caps and gloves, and countless other pieces of clothing.

All Welcome

All kinds and sizes of clothing are welcome. It is requested, however, that they be in good condition.

Clothes may be deposited at any of the following handy locations: Daly City and Serra Theatres; Ice Creamland; PG&E office; Gleason's Dress Shop, 6335 Mission; Mary's Dinette, 6331 Mission; Godfrey's Ice Cream, Westlake; Daly City Firehouse No. 2, 499 Santa Barbara; Kings Market; Westlake Town & Country Food Center; Fran's Beauty Nook, 11

MAYOR ANSWERS QUESTIONS ABOUT COMMUNITY CENTER BOND ISSUE

Recreation Commission Displeased With Marchbanks Park Bldg. Progress

A close examination of the coming $180,000 bond issue to complete the Community Center Building was held at the regular meeting of the Daly City Recreation Commission, Tuesday evening.

Also discussed, but with negative results, was the fate of the Marchbanks Recreation building. It was reported the city still has not started work on repairing the building. The Record called the poor condition of the structure to the city council's attention three months ago.

Recreation Director Elman Rose said the city was holding up the job until such time as all the materials could be found for completing the repair work. He said the city was now attempting to find the necessary tile contractor to complete the showers and toilet facilities in the building.

"It looks to me like the same old stuff," Ed Cavagnero, Commission member said. "More and more of no progress."

Same Sentiments

His sentiments were voiced by the other Commission members present. The Commission promised to continue to bring the building to the attention of the city.

Mid-way in the meeting, Mayor Paul Green was called in to answer some questions concerning the bond issue to complete the Community Center. Following are questions posed by the Commission, and the mayor's answers:

Question: How much will remain to be done when the present contractor is finished?

Answer: The contract should be completed by December 1. At that time the auditorium and lobby will be completed, as well as the shell of the building. These two rooms will be useable. Still to be completed will be two meeting halls, a kitchen, and the teenage center.

Question: Will the $180,000 bond issue complete the building as earlier planned?

Positive Answer

Answer: It will. The money

RESIDENTS OPPOSE NEW DOG HOSPITAL

Council To Render Decision November 13

Still to be decided today is whether or not the city will allow a dog and cat hospital to be constructed on Junipero Serra Blvd. near School street.

At a special hearing Tuesday, about a dozen residents in the area sounded strong protests against the proposed site of the hospital. They asserted the hospital will create a nuisance and lower property values.

The veterinarian, Martin Fremont, said his building would be of soundproof construction, and in no way would bother the residents.

Good Record

Fremont said he has been operating in a similar district in Los Gatos for the past four years. He produced a letter from the Los Gatos health department which stated they had received no complaints of any kind during Fremont's stay in Los Gatos.

However, this did not convince residents who attended the hearing. They asserted that regardless of what type of building goes up, the dogs will disturb them both during the day and night.

To this Fremont replied that the dogs would be allowed outside only during the day, and would be taken in after 5 p. m. When asked how he could keep

Broadmoor

Hanrahan New Police Official

Claude Hanrahan of 902 Bradley drive, Broadmoor, was appointed commissioner of Broadmoor police by the board of supervisors Tuesday, to succeed Jack Gordon who resigned three weeks ago.

The appointment was made over the protest of Ralph Damon, Garden Village Property Owners Association, who contended the post should go to someone from the district. The association recommended the appointment of Valdemar Olson of 116 Village Lane in the Garden Village tract.

Hanrahan and Thomas Jenkins, both San Francisco attorneys, were backed by the Broadmoor Property Association.

In making the appointment Supervisor Thomas Hickey criticized operations of the department, indicating he had received a number of complaints from residents.

Hickey stated that he had seen two patrolmen in one car patroling the Doelger tract, and indicated that the area was out of their territory. He also saw patrols on Junipero Serra boulevard, another territory outside of the Broadmoor police district.

Police Chief Paul Schmidt explained that one of the patrolmen lives in Westlake, and that the Junipero Serra patrol was started following the death of two persons and the injury of one in an accident at the Pierce street crossing.

The patrol was started, he added, after the request for additional policemen was denied by the supervisors.

Daly City Band Needs Musicians

Musicians are badly needed to fill the ranks of the Daly City Band, George Brenner, bandmaster, announced today.

Those interested are asked to contact Brenner, PRospect 5-6043.

AUXILIARY POLICE CLASS TO OPEN

An auxiliary police class is scheduled to open within the next 30 days, Police Chief Roland Petrocchi announced today.

All men interested in joining the class are asked to register at the police department, City Hall, after 5 p. m.

The course will consist of study in criminal investigation, traffic and other matters pertaining to civilian defense.

The classes will be conducted at Jefferson High School. Chief Petrocchi said he hopes at least 30 or 40 men will sign up for the course.

MAYOR RAPS CIVIL DEFENSE BOARD PROCEDURE

Rescue Squad Plan Rejected By City

(Ed Note: Seven citizens were present at the city council meeting Monday evening. This represents a 700 per cent gain over the last meeting when one resident appeared.)

Rejecting a call for the establishment of a civilian defense rescue squad in Daly City now, Mayor Paul Green Monday night criticized the joint county-city civilian defense organization.

This was the highlight of the regular city council meeting.

The mayor's remarks followed a letter from the civilian defense board requesting Daly City, among other cities, to establish a rescue squad here. Purpose of the squad would be to aid in disasters. The board set the cost of setting up such a group at about $6,500, and asked the cities for their opinion.

Impossible

Evidently speaking for the whole council, Mayor Green replied:

"I object to these continued mimeographed . . . megophone instructions to cities. This in an impossible situation. If the state, or

LOCAL RESIDENTS FAIL TO SUPPORT COMMUNITY CHEST

Only $1400 Given For $9,500 Quota

The snapping jaws of an angry watch dog was one man's answer this week to a Community Chest worker's plea for funds.

Chairman Jack Price reports the unidentified resident directed the dog at the Chest representative, after refusing to donate to this year's campaign. The amazed collector managed to get away from the man's house, and out into the street just inches from the dog's bared fangs.

An immediate investigation of the worker's story was promised by Price.

"I have never heard of a more outrageous case, and should it prove correct, I believe stringent measures should be taken against that resident," Price said.

Although this was not indicative of most residents' attitude toward the Community Chest, no one seemed over anxious to give this year. To date only $1,400 has been collected. The quota for the year is $9,500.

This was a $500 increase over last week's collections of $900.

In an area comprising approximately 19,000 people, an average of 12 cents had been collected.

Mr. Jack Price, campaign chairman for the Daly City-Colma-Broadmoor, Garden Village area, expressed his discouragement towards the current campaign.

"It is very discouraging to solicitors to make calls and be turned down," Price said. It hardly seems that anyone is exerting themselves," he added.

The approximate cost per person in the area would be fifty cents, a meager sum to contribute, if one considers the benefits that could be obtained.

However, Price stated that many business men and some residents had done very well, but emphasized that the citizens as a whole must do their share if the county is to properly finance the 15 agencies in the chest.

It is hoped by Chest officials that the drive will be concluded by the end of the month.

The needs are greater than ever before. In the past year, the operation of many of the 15 agencies have been hampered by the lack of funds. This is accountable to the half hearted interest expressed by the citizens in last year's campaign.

Bookies, Drunks In Court

Latest cases of crime and punishment in Daly City this week included:

BOOKIES:

Sentencing of Aldo (Blinky) Ferraris, 32, of San Bruno, and Robert L. Magidson, 35, of San Francisco, was continued for one week in San Mateo county superior court. The two men have pled guilty to felony bookmaking at the Lady Esther Pastry Shop, 6157 Mission street.

Tony Titone, manager of the Daly City Cigar Store, will enter a plea for alleged bookmaking in Superior Court next week. He is charged with the illegal operations from his store at the corner of San Jose and Bepler.

A. J. McArthur, real estate dealer in Daly City, and owner of the Lady Esther Pastry shop which housed the Ferraris-Magidson operation, pleaded not guilty to knowingly harboring bookies. He will go on trial in Superior Court November 15.

DRUNK DRIVING

Wesley Emmett, 37, 88 Edgeworth street, Colma, was found guilty of drunk driving by a jury of seven women and five men in Daly City police court Wednesday.

This was one of three jury trials held here during the year. Emmett had pled not guilty to drunk driving on Junipero Serra boulevard August 31. He was represented by the firm of Thomas Bocci.

The jury took one hour to reach its verdict, and Jury Foreman John E. Barnhart, 122 N. Mayfair, announced the verdict at 5 p.m.

Emmett will be sentenced by Judge W. J. Sweeney October 31.

"ALCOHOLIC CLINIC"

Mrs. Ruby Lee Arabie, 38, has plead not guilty to four counts of of violating the state medical and professional codes in the alleged operation of an unlicensed alcoholic clinic here.

In police court Wednesday, her attorneys called for a jury trial. The trial will be held here, December 4 at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Arabie was arrested at her Daly City home, where the clinic was said to be operated, on September 25. Police said they also suspect she was conducting illegal abortions at the same place.

Remember, you are extremely young yourself, and by going out with other boys you may discover that your present heart interest is just a passing fancy, or the familiar condition of being in love with love. The difference in your ages is too small to be of any consequence if this attachment should develop into the real thing later.

"I'm A Thief"

Dear Dorothy:

I am a thief.

Several years ago I stole a sum of money from my mother. Now she is badly in need of the money I stole. I have a job, and it wouldn't be hard for me to pay her back.

The only trouble is, should I return the money. If I did, this would ruin her love for me . . . or would it? Gosh, I don't know what to do.

Hoping to hear from you. I'm 17-years-old, and confused.

Yours,
H. G.

Mother Love

Dear "H. G.":

You are under-estimating both your mother's intelligence and her love for you. It is hardly likely that a child can steal money from her mother without the mother being aware of what happened. Also, it is entirely like a mother to bear the burden of this terrible deed without complaint hoping that some day her child will awake to the realization of what she has done and make amends.

Just as your mother has probably known all along of your shabby deed, so has she known that you were not in a position previously to make amends. Now that you are, the thing to do is to confess all to your mother and repay her.

Mother love is a very understanding and profound thing. And I'm sure that even if your mother hadn't known of your evil doing, the fact that you have the courage to tell her everything will offset, in her eyes, the mistake you committed when you where hardly more than a child.

License Plates Vanish From Local Vehicle

Mrs. E. W. Anderson, 184 Hillcrest drive, reported to Daly City police Saturday that the license plates have disappeared from her car.

It is not known whether they were lost by the owner or whether they were stolen.

Mayor Answers Questions

will not only be used to finish the rooms, but, there also will be enough to buy furniture and necessary equipment.

Question: Will the city be able to get the necessary materials to complete the building?

Answer: Yes.

Question: Will the $180,000 be enough to landscape the grounds?

Answer: By using our own gardeners we will be able to complete this job.

Question: Why were small tiles used on the front of the building?

Answer: Original plans called for larger tiles. When these became unavailable, it was necessary to use the smaller tiles. If we had not used this tile, the entire front of the building would have had to be redesigned. Also, the additional cost was not taken from the first $295,000 bond issue, but taken from the general fund.

Rumors

Question: There is a rumor around town that the building will have only one toilet. There is also talk that the whole electrical system had to be altered. Is this true!

Answer: No. There will be adequate lavatory facilities, and the electrical contractor has had no trouble.

Question: If the second bond issue passes, when will the building be completed!

Answer: In about six months.

In conclusion, the mayor said: "I believe we acted in good faith. I will take the full responsibility of starting the job, and I believe I did the right thing."

He also noted that November 5 the voters had the simple choice of either completing the center as planned, or letting it stand uncompleted.

Ross Replies

The veterinarian also noted he had applied for a building permit here in 1946. The permit was rejected. Fremont said that the hospital was to have been built near the home of City Clerk B. C. Ross.

"Oh, now I remember you, young man," Ross said. "I didn't like that idea a bit."

Apparently neither do the councilmen like the idea of Fremont building a hospital on Junipero Serra. Councilman Fred Bertetta said he was opposed to the structure, while Councilmen A. J. Gaggero and Jim Kennedy said they still had to decide. However, their questioning during the hearing indicated disfavor with the permit.

Mayor Paul Green said the council would discuss the matter next week and would announce a decision at the next regular council meeting, November 13.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The Daly City area Community Chest funds drive which officially ends this week, is falling far short of the $9,550 quota. Latest total compiled by Red Feather officials is $1,400. However, despite the deadline, volunteer workers have pledged to continue operations in an effort to meet the quota. To date the county goal of $361,250 has been met only by $167,347.

YOUTHS SENTENCED:

A San Francisco 19-year-old this week will purchase an $18 new shirt for Officer Lester Bastedo. He is Joseph P. Cronin who pled guilty to resisting arrest in police court Wednesday.

Cronin, and his companion Raymond W. Larson, 20, also of San Francisco, refused to leave the Players Club, 5999 Mission street, Sunday night. Officers Bastedo and Dave Hansen were called. The two men resisted arrest, and were forcefully taken to the police station. In the struggle Cronin tore Bastedo's shirt.

In addition to paying for the shirt, Judge Sweeney fined Cronin $150, suspended $50 and put him on one year's probation.

Larson was fined $100, suspended $50, and, also, put on one year's probation. Larson had pled guilty to drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

The aforesaid letter noted that not a single representative from Daly City was present at the joint city-county meeting October 4 when the "mimeographed" letter was made up. However, the mayor said Daly City would have a representative at the next meeting of the board, November 1.

Resignation

Other business before the council Monday night included:

1. Accepting the resignation of Mrs. Marion McKaskle from her position as senior clerk in the water department. Mrs. McKaskle, whose resignation becomes effective November 15, said she was leaving because there appeared to be no future for her with the city.

2. Rejected a claim by Emilio Biagini, 467 Knowles avenue, for damage allegedly suffered by his car in a collision with a fire department vehicle last month.

3. Closed the hearing on rezoning the south west corner of Hillside Boulevard and Theirs street from R-1 to R-3. No protests were sounded for the prospective change.

Payments

4. Advanced Ralph Larsen & Co. $22,043 for work on the Community Center Building. Another partial payment of $4,050 was granted Eaton & Smith for work on the extension of Knowles Avenue.

5. Authorized stop signs for the northeast and southwest corners of Valley and Second Avenue.

6. Set November 13 as the day of a hearing on the proposed rezoning of lots on Rice and Second Avenue from R-1 to R-2.

Boy Is Bitten By Dog With License No. 17

Michael Baughn, 5, of 841 Hanover street, Saturday morning joined the contigent of local residents who have been bitten by dogs. Following the canine attack, the small boy was taken to the Junipero Serra hospital for treatment by Officer Wood of the Daly City police.

The dog in question is identified by Daly City dog license No. 17. He belongs to Helen Ralston, 550 Templeton avenue, who will keep him confined for the regulation 14 days.

South City

McClung Named City Manager

Following a stormy debate last Thursday evening, the South San Francisco city council named a new city manager.

He is Emmons McClung, advertising manager and editor for the weekly South San Francisco Enterprise Journal.

McClung will replace Mark Larwood effective November 1, at a salary of $800 a month. The job will be full time.

Only one councilman voted against the appointment. He was Councilman Emilio Cortesi, who has opposed the city manager system, and noted he cast a "no" vote more on principal than on the man.

Opposed

Opposed to the appointment was John J. Noonan, chairman of a citizen's committee which had recommended the job of city manager and city engineer be combined. He was backed up by many vociferous residents at the Thursday meeting.

Noonan called for a special election to establish the powers and qualifications of a city manager. The council rejected this on the basis that it would "not be wise to hold an election while feelings were so hot about the two issues."

Long Time Resident

McClung, who is 39, has been a resident of South San Francisco for the past 11 years, interrupted by three years army service. Until entering military service in 1943 he was a member of the San Mateo County ration board, and chairman of the First Township ration board.

He is past president of the Northern California Newspaper Advertising Managers' association, and is currently secretary of the San Mateo County Industrial Development Association.

WESTLAKE RESIDENTS TO CONSIDER NEW ASSN. OFFICERS

Now is the time for residents of Westlake to consider whom they wish to nominate for the Board of Directors of the Westlake Subdivision Improvements Association, according to Harry Bosbery, social chairman.

Election to the five positions for 1952 will be held in December. A nominating chairman and committee will be appointed in the near future.

Social Security Adviser Here

Mr. Nicholas Gatto, the social security representative from San Mateo, will be at the Council Chambers of the City Hall, Daly City, the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m., effective on Wednesday, October 24, 1951.

This service is made to better assist the many persons in and around Daly City who have become eligible for social security benefits under the new Social Security Amendments. Under the amended Law, a worker now 65 years of age needs only 6 quarters of work under social security, acquired at any time since 1936, to be eligible for benefits.

Mr. Gatto urges persons 65 or over who have some work under social security, and who have not inquired since August of last year to see him at the above mentioned location.

Traffic Check Nets Few Citations

Daly City police joined in a bay area traffic check Friday night during which 540 cars were stopped here, but only eight citations given.

Officer Henry Sunderman said the barricade went up from 8 p.m. to midnight on Mission Street between Alp and Vista Grande avenue. This was the second such traffic check here in the past 30 days.

The few citations were issued for faulty equipment, and failure of the driver to have a license.

Aiding Officer Sunderman in the four hour check was Officer Lester Bastedo.

Meanwhile, in San Mateo county 27,928 cars were stopped at various road blocks. A breakdown of the 955 citations and 7,720 warnings issued throughout the county include: 229 for improper registration, 245 for invalid licenses, 83 for change of address, 612 cited and 1198 warned for defective lights, 149 cited and 108 warned for mechanical defects, and 107 cited and warned for other reasons.

Milk Drivers Union Donates $500 To Chest

Doing their part for the San Mateo County Community Chest, the Milk Wagon Drivers union this week donated $500 to the chest.

Edward Denis, union president, said the members of the union made the donation knowing how much good the Community Chest does for San Mateo County and the Daly City area.

"We only wish we could give more to aid this worthy cause," Dennis said.

Membership in the union is composed of drivers in both San Mateo and San Francisco counties. The $500 was the pro-ration of the total donation for San Mateo county.

Business Executive Lauds Newspaper Advertising Value

Increased newspaper advertising will be the backbone of an extensive campaign planned for 1951 by the producers of Jolly Time Pop Corn, Mr. Howard C. Smith, company President, announced this week.

"We want to reach as many families as possible," Mr. Smith said, "and we believe that newspapers are ideal for this."

"Jolly Time Pop Corn has been on the market for over 36 years. During this time many methods of advertising have been devised . . . but I sincerely believe newspapers are still the greatest service to the community, the individual, and the advertiser.

"Newspaper advertising gives the manufacturer real value for his money," said Mr. Smith. "It offers complete coverage, reaches the whole family, builds good will and makes advertising appeal to the eye. For these reasons the advertiser gets greater sales response for his dollar . . . a saving he can pass along to the people who buy his product."

This decision to increase newspaper schedules for the coming year is based on more than 35 years of advertising experience, during which time Mr. Smith has built an enviable reputation for his product.

KOREANS NEED YOUR USED CLOTHES

Guest Editorial by Mrs. Arthur Heyden

In Korea the need for clothing is growing more urgent hourly, and in an effort to meet that need a clothing drive opened in Daly City this week.

Millions of Korean civilians are wandering back and forth over hundreds of miles of ravaged roads. They must walk these miles on weary feet that have no shoes, carrying their pitifully few possessions, and often children, on their backs.

They have lost virtually all their worldly possessions, Weary in mind and body, cold, hungry, footsore, these "Orphans of the Storm" follow closely as they are permitted behind the Allied forces. They are innocent victims of world forces beyond their control.

It is conservatively estimated that 2,000,000 Korean civilians have been killed, or have died from illness due to exposure, since their land was invaded.

The prediction is that thousands more will die unless more is done than is now being done to alleviate their suffering.

The local Ark Clothing Collection Committee, sponsored by Court St. Mary, Catholic Daughters of America, urges you to search your attics, trunks and closets for clothing for these people.

In addition to the material good realized by the recipients of your donations, Daly City will have its name on a permanent honor roll in the archieves of the Republic of Korea.

Don't fail to give your used clothes to this drive.

HALLOWEEN HAS CHANGED HERE

Goblin night is upon us again—and it's time for a reminder to lay in a stock of sweets for ransom payments to the "tricks or treats" raiders, and prepare to express the proper terror at grotesque masks and grinning pumpkins.

Probably the night is as much fun as ever for the youngsters of this generation—yet there is something missing in this age from the Halloweens of years gone by. One needn't be very far along in years to remember when Halloween was a pretty rambunctious occasion all over. It was fun, all right—but sometimes rough fun. Gangs of lads up to the age of 20 dragged away everything that wasn't nailed down—from farm gates to trucks; paint was daubed on houses, and a busted window was a minor casualty.

Generally now only the small children ring doorbells. They're content with their treats—and by nine or ten o'clock are back home watching television. Perhaps that explains the change. Before the auto and movies and radio came, and now television, the one great night of release from restraint and monotony was something to look forward to eagerly and remember long afterward.

But what are we saying? What is missing is only in the minds of adults—not in the minds of today's young hopefuls. Editorials like this might inspire them to show us old mossbacks they can put on a Halloween that would fade any we ever staged. Best to let well enough alone! Tricks or treats, come to think of it, is a dandy little custom!

CIVILIAN DEFENSE CRITICISM

This week the mayor had a few words to say about the recently organized joint county-city civilian defense organization.

They were not flattering words, although in many ways they might be justified. Commenting on a request from this body for the organization of a rescue squad here, the mayor objected to the form in which the request was made . . . a mimeographed letter. He also noted the city was not in a position to answer such a request, especially as it meant appropriating several thousands of dollars.

We are in no position to judge the merits of such a resque squad. However, we do take issue with the summary manner in which the mayor dismissed the proposition.

It appears to us any civilian defense measure should be closely examined, before ruling it out . . . even though that suggestion was made on a mimeographed paper.

We also point out that not one representative of Daly City was present at the joint city-county civilian defense meeting October 4 when this letter was drafted. Consequently, we feel the city officials should think twice before criticizing an agency which is doing its best to further civilian defense, despite local official apathy.

Fortunately, the mayor took cognizance of the city's lack of representation, and promised an official would be present at the next civilian defense meeting. Such representation may not make mimeographed letters necesary, and may serve to further the civilian defense program here.

At any rate, we feel the city should show a little more cooperation in a program which someday may save thousands of lives in the greater Daly City area.

COMMUNITY CENTER BOND ISSUE

In an informal explanation to members of the Daly City Recreation Commission Tuesday evening, Mayor Paul Green clarified the Community Center Building problem.

We think he made pretty good sense, and are only sorry more people couldn't have heard the explanation. We did our best to give part of it elsewhere in The Record, and we sincerely hope those who have doubts about the $180,000 bond issue, read it carefully.

The city council is made up of five men who have done their best in many ways to serve the community. They have certainly made mistakes, and through these editorials we attempt to point out what we feel is the solution to those errors.

However, when it come to the Community Center Building, we feel they have done the best job possible under the circumstances. We were not always of that opinion, but some research has convinced us the council has sincerely endeavored to bring the residents of this community the finest recreation building in the Bay Area.

The Korean War, coupled with high costs and material shortages has made it necessary to call on the people for another $180,000, November 6, to complete the structure. No one is happy about this added expenditure, but it is one thta must be met.

We believe careful examination of the facts will convince any resident that a "yes" vote is imperative November 6.

Why Not Push The Botton?

The signal system at the "top of the hill" is bad enough, but residents are not helping the situation.

Local police, who have done their best to remedy an otherwise bad situation, report about one-half the pedestrians fail to push the "Walk" button.

This little button, on the edge of the pedestrian lane, controls the "Walk" and "Wait" signals. Unless the button is pushed, the pedestrian can wait for a green "Walk" signal until doom's day.

Police Chief Roland Petrocchi reports the buttons may soon be abolished in favor of an automatic set-up, but until such time, he calls upon residents to help themselves.

The strange thing is that children seem to have more sense than their parents. No one child in 10 fails to push the signal button, police report.

Meanwhile, local officials are still waiting for the state to adjust the signals. It looks like it is going to be a long wait.

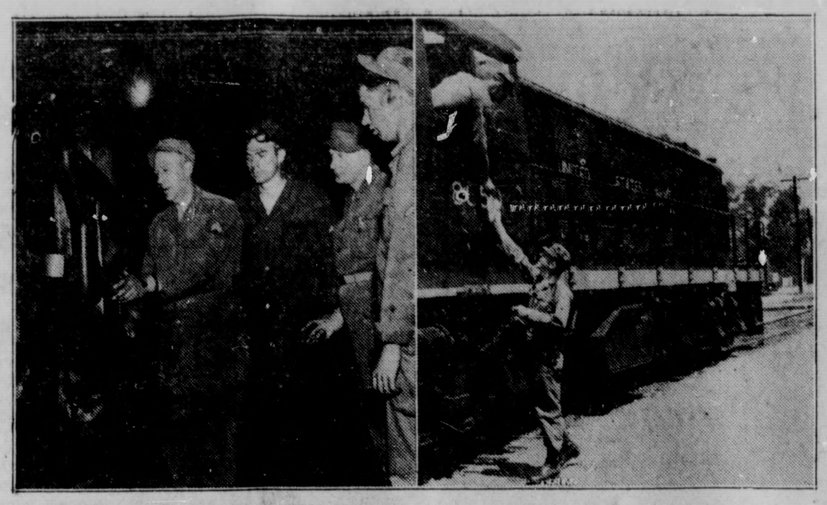
Three months have now lapsed since the city promised to do something about repairing the recreation building at Marchbanks Park.

We think this is at least one month too long. In all fairness to the city, we realize a public body must necessarily move slowly. However, there is no excuse for slowing down to a standstill.

With the rainy season coming on, the use of the building becomes more and more necessary. In its present condition, it can be employed only to house equipment and stray dogs. It is certainly no place for children.

And after all this is a relatively minor job, which should not take too much time, or money. However, in a repaired condition its value to the children of the community can not be measured in dollars.

We hope the city isn't going to keep putting this job off, because, frankly, we don't believe such delay is a healthy sign of official interest in the welfare of the taxpayers.



TRAINING ARMY RAILROAD MEN—The rail movement of United States troops and supplies is the responsibility of the Army Transportation Corps. To fulfill this mission, the Corps conducts extensive training of troops selected for the railroad branch at the transportation center in Fort Eustis, Va. Recruits are introduced to the corps training program after completing six weeks of army basic instruction.

(Left) In the training of Army railroad men at Fort Eustis, the soldier trainmen are ready to operate the railroad. Here a block operator is giving a clearance slip to an engineer trainee on a Diesel-electric locomotive. This means that the train is cleared to proceed through the area controlled by the block operator to the next block station. (Right) After completing their indoctrination period, trainees are given instruction on the locomotive (steam and Diesel-electric) and with various types of rolling stock which form a train. Here a sergeant explains to a group of new trainees the action valve gear which regulates the speed, power and direction of a steam locomotive.

Naval Reserve Officers Face Reclassification

Naval Reserve Officers who were previously deferred by Selective Service Policy by sole virtue of their commission are being reclassified by the Selective Service. Such Reserve Officers may now be inducted if they are not exempt, deferred, or postponed on another basis.

The Twelfth Naval District, in conjunction with Local Selective Service Headquarters, announced today that Naval Reserve Officers who are reclassified as eligible for induction may satisfy Selective Service requirements by performing active duty in the Navy in the rank presently held in the Naval Reserve.

According to new Selective Service policy, certain Naval Reserve officers will be reclassified 1-A unless ineligible due to dependents, age, previous military service or other deferring circumstances.

Naval Reserve officers are advised to contact their local draft boards to determine whether or to what extent they are being reclassified. Those who have been placed in Class 1-A apply for active duty in rank with the Navy, by letter or in person, to the Commandant, Twelfth Naval District, Officer Personnel Branch, Building 258, Treasure Island, San Francisco, California.

Orders to active naval service will be issued by the Chief of Naval Personnel for those volunteering officers whose services can be utilized under present conditions. Active duty under these circumstances applies to the quotas required of local Selective Service boards.

Naval Reserve Officers will be released from active naval service on the date specified by law unless they volunteer and are accepted for further extension of duty. In general, 24 months service is required.

Painters' Union Aids Center

A request for assistance in painting two interviewing rooms of the Child Guidance Clinic at 126 N. El Camino Real, San Mateo, was made by the members of their commission, and the Painters' Union Local 913, San Mateo, came to their aid.

Not only did Messrs. John Ward and Manuel Borba donate their time in painting these rooms, but Mr. Kenneth Hower, business agent of this Local, explained the clinic's ned to the General Paint Company of San Mateo who donated the paint.

The staff and commission of the Child Guidance Clinic are very grateful to this Local and to the General Paint Company who have, on other occasions, come to their aid. It is this type of interest which has made the expansion of this psychiatric clinic for emotionally disturbed children possible.

The clinic is a San Mateo County agency and is open to all parents and persons of San Mateo County who are interested in the welfare of children. The staff of the clinic is especially trained to give assistance to those seeking aid for emotional disturbances in children.

SF Firm Plans Plant At Pismo

Stauffer Chemical Co. of San Francisco has announced it will start construction of a plant for production of citric acid on an 85-acre site about eight miles south of Pismo Beach, to be completed late this fall.

The Stauffer process involves fermentation of molasses by a method developed by the company during 20 years of research and pilot plant operation. Stauffer spokesmen say the new process enables the company to recver many commercially usuable by-products.

The Pismo plant is the sixth new plant built by Stauffer since the war, not including a number of major plant expansions.

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

Why are most men grumpy in the morning?

We think we've found the answer. It's the necktie. Only a man can truly appreciate the truth of this deduction, although many a loving spouse has felt the wrath of the hubby who has almost strangled himself trying to get his cravat knot straight.

While wrestling with a string tie the other morning, we wondered what in the name of jupiter we were doing. Frankly, we couldn't find any earthly reason for this bit of colorful attire.

However, the subject does call for some serious thought.

No Use

Taken from a purely functional view point the tie serves but two purposes. The first is to accent the adam's apple, and the generally fine lines of a man's throat. This may be esthetically pleasing to the women, but it leaves us two degrees above freezing. Second, the tie serves as a reminder of a dirty shirt. It's like a finger pointing up the gravy stains.

As for the decorative use, the tie serves no other aim than to intensify men's complete disregard for colors. Not one male in a hundred can figure why a red and green tie looks out of place with a purple suit.

Virility

The tie also appears to be a sign of virility. Somehow the notion is afoot that the brighter a man's chest piece, the stronger his character. Close observation of the rainbows worn around most men's necks will allegedly make most women deduce there are a lot of would be muscle men parading around the streets.

As a time consumer, the tie is rivaled only by shaving. Figuring at least one minute to get the knot fixed, a man spends a month of his life doing nothing more than torturing himself.

The tie is, also, the strongest foe of democracy. It acts as a symbol separating the worker from the business man. No self respecting office worker, for example, would dare punch the clock without a tie placed firmly around his neck. On the other hand, the man who works with his hands usually boasts an open collar.

On the positive side, the tie is man's one claim to distinction in dress. Amidst otherwise drab clothing, it stands out like the feathers on a ruptured peacock. Some claim it attracts women like nothing so much as a fat bank roll.

Also, the tie serves to keep bread in the mouths of thousands of children. Were it not for man's vain claim to attention, tie manufacturers would go broke. Then, pray, what would happen to the peasants who mass manufacture these atrocities?

In conclusion, however, we believe it better for some to starve than for millions to suffer.

Off with the ties, men. It's about time to display your hairy chests, anyway.

Pedestrian Hit On Broadmoor Street

Recovering from shock and lacerations today is a San Franciscan who was struck by a car in Broadmoor Friday morning.

Broadmoor Police Chief Paul Schmidt said the man was struck at the intersection of Pierce Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard. He noted there is no painted crosswalk at the intersection, and three other accidents have occurred at the same place. Two of the auto-pedestrian accidents proved fatal.

Friday's victim was Clarence Hovis, 2438 Mission street. Driver of the car was Glodia P. Norton, also of San Francisco. She said Hovis was walking across the busy highway, and jumped forward, apparently in an effort to get out of her way.

Hovis was treated at Junipero Serra Hospital.

Woman Recovers Her Stolen Automobile

Because of the sharp eyes of Officer Walsh of the Daly City police, Mildred Pettengill, 617 Larchmont drive, recovered the car stolen from her.

While on patrol duty Sunday Officer Walsh spotted a Pontiac near 124 Station avenue. A check with the San Francisco auto detail brought to light the fact that the car was reported stolen on Saturday from a location near Ocean avenue.

The auto detail notified Mrs. Pettengill of its recovery.

With all the pro and con arguments about changing the name of Daly City, there's one woman living in the Westlake district who has simplified the problem down to one sentence. She loves her home and family and doesn't care one way or another about this name changing deal.

By what standards should a movie be judged? Of all the pictures currently playing in the Bay Area there are two whose comparison might illustrate some kind of a point. From the point of view of outstanding acting the film "A Streetcar Named Desire" can't be surpassed. Also, both the story and the direction are excellent and artistic. But, one leaves the theatre feeling depressed.

On the other hand, there is the completely absurb but strikingly original and humorous movie called, "You Never Can Tell." It will probably not be cited for one single academy award, but you'll enjoy every split second of it and leave the theatre feeling gay and happy.

For women who sew, here's a real break. From England comes material comprised of 55 per cent Australian wool and 45 per cent Egyptian cotton. It has practically the warmth of all wool material but has the important advantage of being washable. It comes in checks, plaids, and flowered patterns of all colors and variety and can be used for dresses, robes, shirts and other garments. Information on where to get this material can be had by phoning The Record, PLaza 5-4321.

Local housewives who insist on the old fashioned sauerkraut made in old fashioned kraut vats will have to join those housewives who purchase this commodity in cans. The Colma man who has been making sauer krout in vats at his home at Route 1, Box 433 is going out of business.

William Fuchs, 63, who has operated his kraut factory in Colma since the San Francisco fire, is being forced to retire because of the canning industry and the high prices.

There was a time within recent years when Fuchs had 32 vats going full blast with each one holding ten tons of finely shredded cabbage bedded down between layers of salt. This was during the second world war when canning was restricted by the government.

Lost, forgotten or mislaid house keys barred three Daly City women from their respective homes over the past weekend. And what did all three of them do? They called the Daly City police department and with the help of officers gained entrance to their residences.

Women requiring this police assistance were Mrs. Olga Gianni, 43 Lake Vista avenue; Mrs. Sand, 419 Niantic avenue; and Mrs. C. Soukka, 1263 Brunswick street.

OLPH ANNUAL COUNTRY FAIR FETE ATTENDED BY RECORD LARGE CROWDS

If you weren't at the Country Fair given by Our Lady of Perpetual Help parishioners last weekend in the school auditorium, you really missed something.

Crowds of Daly Cityites wended their ways to the "top of the hill," where the beautiful parish school stands, to participate in the elaborate "Country Fair" presented to them by the hard working people of the parish, though it seems to be a question as to who has the most fun—the people in front of or behind the booths!

One of the most popular spots at the "Country Fair" was the children's attractions. Situated in a separate building and arranged especially for the small fry, members of the Mothers' Club bravely carried on although all of them stoutly claimed they had a lot of fun with the kids. It really is quite a sight to see some chubby two year old solemnly fishing in a converted washtub and triumphantly coming up with a prize! Or did you ever watch the marksmanship of some of the First Graders.

Quick

The good ladies had to be quite quick on the jump when some of the darts came flying or the membership of the Mothers' Club would consist of quite a few one-eyed gals. No child was allowed to leave without some treasure and so everyone seemed happy, clutching at guns, lambs, whistles and sticky candied apples.

There was always a crowd around the refreshment stand and why not when there was available so many delicious home cooked delicacies prepared and served by members of St. Mary's Court, Catholic Daughters of America. The ladies were kept busy all day and far into the night.

Decorations

The interior of the hall was colorfully decorated with gay country fair colors with a replica of a huge barn at one end of the hall. A peculiar looking rooster and a flirtatious cow peeked through the windows. Each booth was decorated by the individual chairmen and their crews and so showed a variety of colors with a live Rhode Island Red chicken featured in the Grocery Booth. This particular booth was manned by a crew of peculiar looking characters who resurected their clothes from some museum. Mammy Yokum was there smoking her corn-cob pipe, Flapper Fany with her moth-eaten fur-piece and a couple of googly-eyed gals whose clothes must have been dug up from the basement of a haunted house. "Madam X," the beautiful red-headed chicken was awarded to Leslie Balestra at the end of the three-day fete.

At the end of the "Country Fair," tired but happy, the workers compared notes and massaged aching feet. Although no record breaker, the Country Fair was declared quite successful financially and a substantial sum was realized. The proceeds of this affair will be applied to the school building fund, thanks to the hard work of Father William C. Stewart and the many workers of the parish—and also thanks to the generosity of the people of Daly City whose patronage made this success possible. A big vote of thanks from the many committee members also goes to the merchants of Daly City, who donated so generously.

Awards

Many awards were given, which are listed below, but whether one came home with a large award, or a can of beans, everyone went home with the memory of another O.L.P.H. Carnival which was grand fun while it lasted and was over all too soon.

Colma PTA Urges Parents To Attend Child Conferences

By MRS. MARJORIE HOPPER

Have you attended the Parent Education Classes being held in Room 11 at the Jefferson Union High School, Tuesday and Thursday evening?

Do you know why that boy that is just coming into his teens has enough energy to play until he drops, but when the work is to do, he hasn't enough energy left to do it? Do you know why that girl will just literally die, before she will wear some garment, why that nine year old boy is such a bore, but seems to have all his faculties?

Well, maybe we can find the answers to these and other problems if we come and talk over our experiences with other parents, under the able leadership of Mr. John Ivan.

Mrs. J. D. Hopper of the Parent Education Committee of the 17th District will have a display of pamphlets (which may be had for a nominal fee) and will assist you any way she can.

Mrs. John Wiesner, president; Mrs. Edward Dennis, membership chairman; and Mrs. J. D. Hopper, attended the 17th district meeting in Burlingame Thursday, October 18. Dr. Freidy Heisler, Carmel psychiatrist and president of Monterey County Mental Health Society, and Mrs. Frances Miller of the San Francisco State College, were the speakers of the day.

Mrs. Wiesner delivered 36 dozen cookies to the Blood Bank in San Mateo. The generosity of our units members was more than appreciated by the blood bank's officers. We had more than doubled our original donation.

Save the day of November 6 to help us to celebrate our unit's birthday. It will be an evening meeting at the Colma Community Center.

Mrs. Mary Williamson of the T. B. Association asks for volunteers to help stuff envelopes with Christmas seals, any day except Tuesday, hours 9-12, 1-4. Please contact Mrs. Wiesner, PLaza 5-0072, if you have an hour or more to give of your time. Money from the sale of these seals pays for our free chest x-rays.

Mrs. Louis Bertetta, recreation chairman, is asking that you call her if you can help her decorate the cafeteria at Jefferson High School for the Children's Halloween Party. This is in co-operation with the Daly City Recreation Department. The party will be held October 31.

Our current membership drive will continue through the end of October. The concentrated drive in Thornton and Jefferson Elementary School has been completed with Mrs. Grays room winning top honors respectfully. If you have not sent your envelope back to school, please do so at once. If you have not been contacted and wish to join call Mrs. Edw. J. Dennis, PLaza 5-6277 or Mrs. John Wiesner, PLaza 5-0072. You may also join at our next meeting. Join now! Be one in a million!

Homework Problem Discussed At PTA Meeting Recently

"Should children have homework?"

This was one of the many questions put before Mr. W. Z. Weibel, superintendent of the elementary school district, in a panel discussion which was conducted at the General Pershing school, October 23.

At the Fathers Night meeting of the General Pershing PTA a question box was made available, and answers to the questions submitted by the parents were discussed. Panel members included Miss A. Gattucio, Jefferson Elementary schol nurse, Mrs. A. W. Lauffenburger, representing the parent and Mr. W. Tergis, General Pershing school teacher.

Questions asked were in regards to whether homework helps or hinders a child, with members of the panel and parents giving their opinions.

Child Health

Child health also was discussed, and due to the overcrowded classes Miss Gattucio, school nurse, advised mothers to keep their children home at least three days if they have contacted a cold. It would help to prevent absenteeism.

In Mr. Tergis's opinion parents and teachers should become better acquainted, there would be a closer relationship, and a better understanding would exist between the child and teacher.

During the evening, parents joined in the community singing, which was led by Mr. W. Tergis.

Mrs. A. W. Lauffenburger was elected to act as delegate-at-large for the Jefferson District PTA Round Table, to be accompanied by Mrs. F. Prisco, PTA president, and Mrs. Robert Keith, vice-president.

Prizes will be awarded to Mrs. G. Benofsky, General Pershing 1st gared teacher and her class for having brought in the most parents during the membership campaign which ended Tuesday, October 23. And also for having the largest number of salvage bags.

Due to election day being November 6, the regular meeting of the General Pershing PTA will be held on Wednesday, November 7.

Modern Convenience Is Household Hazard

A modern convenience can also be a hazard. This was illustrated the hard way to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Anderson, 562 San Diego avenue, Monday night.

Their refrigerator blew up. With a loud noise, one of the freezing units in the refrigerator exploded releasing considerable ammonia. Also the ceiling and walls of the kitchen are in need of a new paint job because of the ammonia fumes, soot and other damaging agents that the explosion brought in contact with them.

The emergency was taken care of by Officer Munday of the Daly City police, Chief Bodien, Valentine and Fire Company No. 2.

Mrs. Charles Grigg, general chairman for the event, said the tours will benefit the club's conservation propject for the year Butano Forest.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Fantastic Father

"MY HUSBAND is insane," Ray Runyon opens her letter abruptly. "There is no other word for it. Outwardly, he is what he has been for the 13 years of our marriage, a quiet, devoted husband and father, a successful professional man, popular in business and club circles.

"But, actually, he is inflicting upon me and upon our children, Mimi, 11, and Charles, 8, as cruel a persecution as any torturer of old could devise. He has fallen completely under the spell of a woman two years older than he, a twice-married and twice-divorced woman, a woman whose dyed hair, coarse talk, and low associates ought to repel him, as they do all self-respecting people. Chuck invests her with every charm and virtue on the list, can hardly speak of her for the reverence and emotion her name evokes in him, and proposes to tear our lives to pieces so that he may place her in the proud position of his wife.

"He wants me to give him a divorce, accept a third of his income, which would not be $3,000 a year, keep the children, allowing them to come and stay with 'Daisy' whenever he decrees, and that I keep friendly with Daisy and never say anything that reflects on her.

Never Loved Me

"He says he has never loved me—this after years of such companionship and happiness as few women know. He says Daisy will be a far more intelligent mother than I, to his children, and he told his own devoted mother that he had never had much respect for her judgment. He continues to live at home, seizes every opportunity to win the children's sympathy, telling them kindly that Mother isn't well, and that's why she is so nervous and tearful. He never speaks to me at all, declines all invitations that include me, and to my request, in a moment of desperate anger, that he move to his club, he returned calmly that he could not afford it, as he expected his expenses to be doubled shortly.

"... the children's sympathy ..."

"For Daisy's birthday he ordered a white cake frosted with daisies, in the center of which he placed a ring worth thousands that he had been holding, up to that moment, for Mimi, some day. When he took Charles into the mountains fishing for a week, she went along. If I force him to speak he says patiently, 'Why don't you act as Daisy does? She has never done a small or a mean thing in her life.' And he told me that if he threw her down now it would kill her, and brought out the old argument that it would be better to have two of the three of us happy, rather than all be miserable.

Heartbroken

"Of course, I can't eat, or sleep, or pretend I am not heartbroken. This horrible thing, vaguely suspected at this time last year is reality now. This morning, for the first time in months, Chuck was loving and coaxing with me. He begged me to be kind, to be nice to Daisy, to realize that she was taking nothing from me, because he and I had lost all love for each other long ago. This last is completely untrue. And finally, as I did not yield, he hinted what I have known must come, that no household bills would be paid, and that the children and I would have no money at all until I agreed to his arrangement. When I said I could claim support under the law he said by all means to do so.

"All this is like a nightmare. What shall I do? Help me, and tell me what to do."

What you must do, Ray, will be done for Chuck's sake as well as yours and the children's. You must stick it out. Even if the woman were a finer type, and there were a faint chance of his really loving her, you would have to pursue the same course. You cannot fail the children because he does. If you have to take boarders, or a job, or move back to Mother's, no matter. Stick to your guns. You cannot lose. And the person who will be most deeply grateful to you in the end will be Chuck himself.

But the eternal mystery of it, to a woman! Not that a man can be attracted to another woman, or want a divorce. Those things, if indicating a weakness for flattery and self-deception, are natural enough. But that the man should want to insult and hurt the woman he loves, sweep all the value of the happy past aside, injure his children as no enemy could injure them, and add to all this the bland assurance to everyone concerned that he is acting wisely, generously, and with a cool head. His wife, he assures her never really loved him.

Broadmoor Bazaar

Doll Booth To Be Major Feature Of Evening Event Slated For November 8-9

Dolls will be a major feature at the bazaar to be held at the Community Presbyterian Church of Broadmoor on the evenings of November 8 and 9.

Dressed beautifully by the women of the church, the dolls are sure to win the heart of any little girl. There will be baby dolls and boy dolls and girl dolls, each one a precious, lovable creature. The dolls are thirteen inches tall and have soft, washable rubber skin. Their heads are of unbreakable plastic. Some have eyes which open and close.

Mrs. Carlos Mattson, chairman of the Doll Booth, hopes there will be enough dolls for all who want them.

The handiwork booth, presided over by Mrs. Donald Waterman, also promises to be a favorite shopping spot for patrons of the Bazaar. Some beautiful work has already been turned in, exquisite cachets, hand made muk-luks, aprons and towels and pot holders.

If you like a surprise and want to have fun, the parcel post booth is where you'll stop. Operated by Mrs. Trevor Jones, this booth is sure to be a hit.

Another Bazaar favorite is the White Elephant Booth. Mrs. John LePine is in charge.

There are still some skirts available, according to Mrs. Marvin Howard, who is making ladies' skirts to order for the bazaar. These are made from lovely cotton fabrics brought from Mexico by Mrs. Margaret Pauline Brown. Inquiries about them may be made by calling Mrs. Howard at PL. 5-6437.

Dinner will be served in the annex during the bazaar, and no reservation is necessary. Mrs. John Fies is hostess.

The bazaar is being held to raise funds for the new church, and the public is cordially invited.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

Real travelling is a little out of my line these days, but this past week I have had occasion to make inquiries about various types of transportation for my mother—and some of the answers I received have given me pause to think.

"Well," said one friend, "if your mother has a bad heart and is going all the way to Utah—she shouldn't consider anything but flying! Three hours and she's there. No strain, no pain!" which sounded so reasonable that I called a local air lines immediately.

They were very polite. "Yes, the trip took three hours to Salt Lake City. Yes, the fare was $48.75 . . . yes, indeed, that did include the tax! Well, now, as to baggage we allow forty pounds per passenger after which the charge is twenty cents per pound. Just cal us anytime!"

'Thank you very much," I replied, and promptly called a friend of mine who has done much flying over the United States. "How is the flight from here to Salt Lake?" I quiped over the wire, "I hear it's terrible——"

"Sure is!" came the reply. "I'd rather walk myself. Thinking of flying there?"

"Not I, but Mother is and wanted to know what the trip was like. Is it really bad—because I was only kidding when I said it was terrible."

Now my friend is not given to flights of fancy and he usually favors the laconic stye of conversation, but my question changed all that.

"What is that flike like? Ha! Those Rocky mountains aren't hills, you know, and when that plane hits an air pocket over them you feel like the elevator had just broken at the top of the 450 Sutter building—with you in it! What's wrong with taking a trani? Any train?"

Mother leaves on the Southern Pacific at 11 a.m. tomorrow and since I have traveled on trains I am pretty sure she will have a nice and comfortable trip, but I can't help wondering about my friend and his horrific "air pocket" description — wondering, that is, if it can come up to the same trip by bus—and my description of same?

Airmen Donate Blood For Fellows On Fighting Front

Col. Hobart R. Yeager, Commanding Officer of the 28th Air Division (Defense) at Hamilton AFB, today urged all members of his command to give all-out support to the Blood for Freedom Program of the Armed Forces.

He notified all squadron and Ground Observer Corps Filter Center commanders that this support can be furnished in these ways: Actual donation of blood by Division personnel; transportation of donors and equipment to blood donor centers, and cooperation with persons in charge of the Blood Donor Program within the Division Area. The 28th is charged with the Air Defense of Northern and Central California and of Northwestern Nevada.

Col. Yeager cited a recent statement by Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett in which the secretary appealed to every American to visit his local Red Cross Chapter and blood bank to "offer your blood to save the lives of our wounded men."

Lovett said to build up the blood reserves exhausted by the Korean conflict almost eight times as much blood as the present 40,000 pints a month must be received. The secretary added: "I have faith that we will not fail to reach this goal."

Jeff Tackles Winless Willow Glenn Club

INDIANS SEEK SECOND LEAGUE WIN OVER P.A.L. CELLAR DWELLING SQUAD

With the injured list down to three men, the Jefferson Indians tackle the cellar dwelling Willow Glenn Rams Friday, October 26 at Jefferson, beginning at 3 p. m.

Judging by comparative scores, the Indians are favored to dump the Rams, who have yet to record a victory this season.

Also, following their 24-0 loss to Burlingame, the locals should be in search of a win.

Coach Glenn South reported that all but three men will be ready for action Friday. Bob Murchinson, Pete Koprac and Bryan McMahon will be sidelined.

Still seeking their first win, the Rams from San Jose have dropped contests to Fremont, 27-12; San Jose, 19-0; and undefeated Palo Alto, 37-7.

Lone win for the Indians thus far this season was against San Jose High, 20-13.

Expected to carry most of the running attack for the locals is Izzy Galante, who has been a consistent ground gainer all season.

Although the Indians have dropped three encounters this season, they have a 500 average in league play, with a 1-1 record.

In the Burlingame encounter, great team speed gave the Peninsula team the advantage over the Indians. Riddled with injuries, the Jeffersonians saw their opponents capitalize on all mistakes and again a 24-0 nod.

Two interceptions by Don Jon, defensive back from Burlingame, set up a pair of scores. Jon picked one out of the air and rambled 50 yards to the Indian 12 yard line.

From there the Panthers had little trouble scoring.

Another interception by John placed the ball on the opponents' 6 yard line for the Panthers. Again the scoring was easy.

A fumble by the Indians on a kickoff gave Burlingame possession on the 28 yard line. A series of plays and the Panthers had a third score.

Coach South was particularly pleased with Galente's running and Bill Allen's line play. Allen, guard, continually charging, accounted for several ground losses.

South described the contest as "one of our worst ballgames, largely due to injuries." At least six keymen were sidelined.

Down the Peninsula this Friday the Burlingame-Palo Alto fracas promises to be the donnybrook of the PAL season. The undefeated Vikings and Panthers tangle at Palo Alto in a contest that may very well be the champion decider.

Lincoln and Willow Glenn were prey of the powerful Palo Alto Vikings, losing 46-6 and 37-7 respectively. Although the Panthers have not been as impressive, they are credited with three wins, having beaten Lincoln 25-0, Sequoia 14-6 and Jefferson. Both have strong defensive units.

After six inning of runless ball playing, Sartos rallied and overcame a five run lead and took the contest. Neal Nostrom's double in the sixth with two men on, strated the rally. Babe Ottenello was the winning pitcher. Sartos meets Newhalls at San Bruno Sunday at 1:30.

McDowell and Chuck Donley shared the pitching assignment against Don Gilmore, to give Vince and Freds a 6-4 win. The locals got eight hits and their opponents five hits. Malman got 2 for 4 to pace V and F.

Daly City A.C. ammased 19 hits and 13 runs to trounce the Jesters, while Reed held them to six hits and three runs. Every man on the locals squad obtained at least one hit, with Petropolis nabbing four for five.

Behind the six hit pitching of George Consani, the Sartos Club overcame the Guadalupe Native Sons, 6-4, in the first game of the New AA Golden Gate Rec. league. The hitting power was supplied by Bert Jones, Hiene Schuback, and Tom O'Hara, who collected two hits apeice, and Bud Vlasan with four hits in five trips.

Colma "A" and "B" Teams Score Over OLPH Eleven, 18-12 and 14-6

By HARRY ARONSON
Coordinator of Athletics

The Colma "B" and "A" teams opened their league play by winning a pair of games from Our Lady of Perpetual Help teams. The "B" game score was 18 to 12 and was close all the way.

In the first quarter Billy Harold, P. H. halfback, returned a Colma punt 50 yards for a touchdown to put his team in the lead. Then Danny Rasmussen, Colma back, made several long gains. Faking an end run, Rasmussen passed to Gary Atteberry for 15 yards for the score to tie the game up.

In the second quarter Legus Watts, Colma speed burner, returned a short P.H. punt for 25 yards to score the second Colma touchdown to give his team a 12 to 6 half time lead.

Third Quarter

The third quarter found both teams throwing incomplete passes and exchanging punts for a scoreless period. In the final period a very poor kick by Ron Davis, Colma tail back, which went only five yards, gave the ball to P. H. on the Colma 20 yard line. P. H. wasted little time and score a touchdown when Ray Brush passed to Billy Harold. On this play Dan Rasmussen deflected the ball into Harold's hands and the latter raced into pay dirt to tie up the game.

Rasmussen passed to Car Mecchi for the deciding touchdown which gave the Colma boys their first victory of the season. The game was well played and the outcome was in doubt until the final whistle.

Slow Motion

The "A" game started out in slow motion with Colma and P.H. unable to make a score, but in the second quarter Frank Bricker, P.H. workhorse, galloped around his own left end for 20 yards to the Colma 15. Bricker tossed an underhand pass to Jack Brush for a T.D. to take the lead 6 to 0.

A long pass from John Lucia to Herman Stevenson put the Colma team on the P.H. 25 yard line. On the next play Lucia faked a pass and sprinted over the goal line for a touchdown. Lucia passed to Art Sutter for the extra point to give Colma a 7 to 6 half lead.

The third period was scoreless with neither team able to put together a scoring drive. With Lucia completing several long passes to Sutter, the Colma boys worked the ball in scoring position. This same combination clicked again for a touchdown and then Lucia threw to Gus Sakaldasis, Colma Center, for the extra point to clinch the game. The final score read, Colma "A" 14, Perpetual Help "A" 6.

Next Saturday's games will be between the Colma a.m. and p.m. teams, and from all indications they should be thrillers.

Windbreakers Meet Castlemont Sunday

The Windbreakers of South San Francisco will defend their undefeated record and top spot in the Northern California Athletic League once again on the Castlemont high school field Sunday at 2 p.m. against a reinforced Castlemont Cavalier squad.

Coming off a two week rest, the Windbreakers will be in top shape and have the services of all but two players. In their last game, Windbreakers topped the San Francisco Broncos, a potent competitor in the league, 14 to 6.

The Cavaliers have a record of six wins in nine games, which is nothing to overlook. Without the loss of key players they would be right on the top also. Spike Cordeiro and All American Herm Wedemeyer of St. Mary's fame are in the Islands and will miss this game.

With his losses, coach Charlie Williams has gained the services of fullback Bill DeYoung and linebacker Jim Castignole of last year's Stanford team. He also boasts two of the leading ground gainers of the league in quarterback Jack Silva and half Jim Marshall.

With two weeks of work on new plays and changing of blocking assignments, the Windbreakers coach Leo Ferko assures fans of a razzle dazzle spectacle. He will have all four backs running and passing and expects to get Bob Hamilton and Aldo DeTomasi into the open once again for long gains and more TD's.

Adding punch to the Windbreakers' attack will be 215 pound fullback Bill Calhoun, who was the 'Breakers leader on the ground until suffering a leg injury early in the season.

An anticipated packed house of 3000 will be on hand to witness the event.

Auto Race Slated For Bay Meadows

Cars and drivers that competed in the Indianapolis Speedway classic will be featured in the AAA 150-mile national championship race at Bay Meadows, Sunday, November 11.

Under the direction of William P. Kyne and J. C. Agajanian, approximately 30 entries are expected, but the starting field will be limited to 18 cars. Drivers turning in the fastest speeds in the time trials will qualify.

Virtually all of the nation's leading speedway pilots, who annually begin their championship schedule with the Indianapolis classic, will participate for the $10,000 guaranteed purse.

The Bay Meadows "150" will conclude the 1951 auto racing circuit.

Last year's race drew the largest gross gate of any attraction ever held at the Penninsula track. Reserved seats for the Armistice Day race go on sale this weekend.

Jeff 110s, 120s Lose To San Jose

A last quarter drive by San Jose High school gave them a 24-21 win over the Jefferson Indians 120 basketball team last week.

The Jeffersonians, leading 10-7 at half time, and 14-11 at the end of the third quarter, saw their lead diminish and overcome, when the San Jose team scored 13 points in the final quarter.

Ed Van Hook, San Jose forward, having no points until the final period, suddenly came on and scored three quick field goals. Two were desperation shots from almost the middle of the court.

Leo Villard, casaba letterman, was high scorer for the losers with nine points. Tom Costello scored seven points.

Meanwhile the 110s dropped their contest to the San Joseans, 34-20. High point man for the juniors was Chapman with seven, followed by Al Figone with 6. Figone is high seasonal scorer for the 110s.

Streams To Open For Steelhead

When California's summer trout angling season comes to an end one hour after sunset, Wednesday, October 31, many sportsmen will merely switch gear and go after steelhead—the rainbow's ocean-going cousin.

In a score of California counties between Orange and Del Norte, specified streams tributary to the Pacific will be opened to the annual pursuit of steelhead and salmon. Bag and possession limits of three trout or salmon or combination will prevail in the legal waters north of the Golden Gate, with a two-fish combination limit south of Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

KEEP SPEED DOWN

It may be great sport to test out the speed capacity of that new car, but it is a sport that may easily turn to tragedy, warns the National Automobile Club. Under present crowded highway conditions, you should at all times keep your speed down to the point that gives you complete control of your car.

Daily, hourly and spot prizes will be given each day. (Also, the pin is surrounded by a 4-foot, 6-foot and 10-foot circle. Every one within any circle will win a prize.

Junior Gridders Drop Mateo Game

San Mateo's frosh-soph gridders toppled the Jefferson Indians from the top spot in the PAL last week, defeating them 27-6.

Undefeated until the Mateo game, coach Joe McGrath men could not match the speed of the Peninsula team.

Billy Cox, San Mateo speedster, accounted for three touchdowns, sprinting 20, 40, and 50 yards for the tallies.

With a half time score of 7-0, the Mateans came alive in the second half and scored three times.

Omar Grimes accounted for the local's TD. On a fourth down with two yards nedeed for a first down, the Jeffersonians gambled on a running play.

With the San Mateo defense in close to stop the attempted first down, Grimes hit down the middle, broke out into the open and went for fifty yards and the score.

McGrath stated that the team tackling was poor and timing of

WORLD FAMOUS FRANCISCAN PREACHER TO SPEAK IN SOUTH CITY NEXT WEEK

Italian speaking people of Daly City, South San Francisco, San Bruno, Millbrae and Colma are awaiting with intense interest the coming of the famous Franciscan preacher Father Antonio Lisandrini, who will preach in the All Souls Church, at South San Francisco, on October 29-30-31.

Father Lisandrini is on a speaking tour of California at the invitation of the Italian Catholic Federation; already the echo of his enormous success is preceding him. In Weed, where his tour began, people traveled hundreds of miles to overflow the church, attracted by his powerful oratory; in Stockton, loudspeakers had to be set up outside the church.

Heralded as Western Europe's most outstanding orator, he has aroused enormous demonstrations of faith, not only in the public squares of Italy, but in England, France, Argentina. He has been compared to the most famous French orators of the past century, and is considered one of Communism's most feared and most effective enemies.

The local committee of the I.C.F., under the chairmanship of Jos. Pucci, is working in cooperation with all other Italian-American organizations in order to give the largest number of people the opportunity of hearing Father Lisandrini.

Notched Curbs On Hills Urged To Halt Runaways

Cutting of diagonal parking "notches" six feet into the sidewalks of the city's steeper hills, to prevent improperly parked cars from running away, was proposed here this week by Traffic Captain Jack Eker.

Eker told the Police Commission he had "just about given up" trying to convince motorists they should turn their wheels in to the curb, set their brakes firmly and leave their cars in reverse gear on such hills as those on California, Mason and Taylor streets.

"We had 471 runaway cars between January 1 and September 1," Eker told the commissioners. "We had 418 roll down hill in all of 1950. Things are getting worse."

Eker said his plan, already approved by Police Chief Michael Gaffey, would narrow the sidewalks by the six feet depth of the notches, but that the width of the street itself would not be narrowed. Cars would project no farther into the street than they do now when parked parallel. The notches would be cut into the sidewalks in such a fashion that cars would park with both front wheels flush against a six inch curbing.

Eker suggested that the plan, if put into effect, be tried first on California street.

Lions Welcome Hawaiian Boys

Guest speaker at the weekly Daly City-Colma Lions Club luncheon Wednesday was Mr. Earl S. Herald, curator of aquatic biology, Steinhart Aquarium.

Recently returned from a scientific expedition aboard the Vanderbilt yacht to the South Seas, Mr. Herald told of his trip and showed movies. Herald was introduced by Elio Fontana.

Joe Belli reported that the Christmas fund was doing exceedingly well having passed the $100 mark. The money will be used to comfort needy families at Christmas time.

At last week's luncheon, two young Hawaiians, Harold DeMello and Pat Fonesca, introduced by past President Gil O'Shaughnessy, entertained Lion Club members with Hawaiian guitar selections and songs. The group was particularly impressed by the young men's presentations of American hill-billy selections. As an extra attraction, DeMello gave an excellent imitation of Carmen Miranda singing a Latin American song.

Wednesday, November 7, will be Ladies' Day at the club's luncheon. On the following week, Les Olson, North Peninsula Lions Club district governor will be the honored guest and speaker.

Mailliard, II, vice president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Bill Rossi; and Randie P. Shields, manager of the San Francisco Chamber's Agricultural department. The calf had been purchased by Rossi with $125 advanced by the Chamber of Commerce as its prize to him for being San Mateo County winner of the "calf scramble" held last March at the Cow Palace Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition.

Community Chest

FUND DRIVE BEHIND QUOTA

The Community Chest of San Mateo County gets no money from the campaigns of any other Community Chest to provide neccesary money to operate its 15 Red Feather Agencies.

If the people who live in San Mateo County fail to provide funds, the Agencies cannot furnish the necessary service during 1952. All of the money collected here stays here, except one item of publicity and service rendered by the National Community Chests of America which amounts to less than one-third of one per cent.

This statement was made today by County Campaign Chairman J. Neil Hanson and he further remarked that because of the tremendous increased population over last year that many solicitors have not yet been able to cover all the territory but are determined to finish the job and will continue until every household in the county has been given an opportunity to give something.

Hanson urged people who have not yet contributed to send their pledge directly to Community Chet headquarters, 117 South B street, San Mateo. It will save many steps for the already weary volunteer solicitor.

County-wide Advance Gifts Committee, under direction of Dexter J. Tight of Woodside announces that 38 per cent of their $146,250.00 goal is now collected. Many firms are yet to be heard from and increased efforts are now being made to reach the total goal by the final Victory Dinner report meeting Thursday night, November 1.

County Campaign Chairman J. Neil Hanson, reported a total of $167,347 raised as of today. While the campaign officially closed yesterday, there is still much clean up work to be done in the various divisions of the campaign and Hanson said his committee will continue throughout the next week and final campaign reports will be available at the Victory Dinner meeting, November 1st.

Chamber Approves 4-H Club Prize

A San Francisco Chamber of Commerce vice president had the unique privilege this week of "okaying" a calf for exhibition purposes.

He is J. W. Mailliard, III, sales manager for Mailliard & Schmiedell; the calf is Oscar the Angus—weight, 600 pounds, price $208.

The animal is the newest acquisition of Bill Rossi, 14-year-old member of the Montara, San Mateo County 4-4 Club. Bill had been a winner, earlier this year, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "calf scramble" at the Junior Grand National Show in the Cow Palace. For his prize, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce donated $125 toward purchase of the calf—such participation in the future of a young rancher being part of its continuing program in farm-city relations.

Since the award was made in March, young Rossi has been scouring the countryside for "just the right calf"—and he found it the other day.

He wrote for the Chamber's "committee" to come down to Montara and inspect the animal—part of the rules of the award. Almost before the calf had made itself at home, in whisked Mr. Mailliard—who is chairman of the Chamber's Grand National committee—and Randle Shields, manager of the organization's Agricultural department—the "committee."

They examined the animal and approved it forthwith, congratulating young Rossi on his eye for beef.

Now it will be the youngster's responsibility to care for the calf and raise it for exhibition in next year's Junior Grand National—keeping the Chamber posted on his progress. The calf, of course, is the permanent property of the young rancher and will be raised by him for eventual marketing.

Household Work Now Under Social Security Laws

Before this year, household workers (including maids, cooks, laundresses, butlers, gardeners and others who work in private homes), were left largely to their own devices or the generosity of their employers to provide a means of retirement or protection for their families in case of their death.

Beginning January 1, 1951, however, this type of employment is covered under the Federal Social Security Law, provided two requirements are met:

1. The household employee must work on part or all of 24 different days in a calendar quarter for the same employer.

2. The employee must be paid at least $50 in cash wages by this employer.

If a person works for more than one employer and meets the above tests with each, then both employers must report his earnings.

Here, as with other employment, it is the responsibility of the employer to withhold the 1½ per cent tax from the employee's pay, match it with a like amount, and make a report to the Collector of Internal Revenue at the end of each quarter-year, on a simple envelope-type form devised to make record keeping easy. It is suggested that the employer keep a calendar, and check the days on which his employee works. In this way, he will know when the 24-day test has been met.

It is the responsibility of the worker to have a Social Security number and show this number to his employer, for it, too, must be on each report. Reports for the third quarter, July, August, and September, are due by the end of October.

Social Security Benefits Explained

Claims for Old Age and Survivors Insurance monthly payments should be filed as soon as the worker retires from jobs covered by social security after age 65, the San Mateo office of the Social Security Administration advised residents of San Mateo County today.

Also, the family or friends of deceased workers should inquire as soon as convenient.

Because of the easier qualifying conditions now in effect, many more people will be entitled to such benefits. However, it appears that many are not aware of this, and therefore, fail to claim the benefits due them and their families.

Edward J. Foley, manager of the office, urges that anyone who believes payment may be due to contact the office to make certain. The office is located at 517 E. Fourth Avenue, San Mateo, telephone Diamond 4-6803, and is open from 9:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday.

County Property Tax Rate Almost Doubled During Postwar Years

San Mateo county's property tax rate during th postwar years has gone from the $1.1485 per $100 of taxable value levied for fiscal 1945 to a high of $2.26 for fiscal 1949 and to the $1.88 rate which will be on the tax bills property owners get the first part of November, California Taxpayers' association reported today.

The county tax rate is only one of several which make up the property tax bill, the Taxpayers' association pointed out. School districts, cities, and special districts also depend on property for support.

Ghosts To Have Field Day In Play Coming To Jefferson High Nov. 15

The curtain will rise at 8:15 p.m. at the Jefferson Union high school auditorium for two performances, November 15 and 16, of Emyln Williams' ghostly three act mystery entitled "A Murder Has Been Arranged."

The audience will find itself transported from the auditorium to the St. James Theater, London, where the Jefferson Players portray a weird dinner party gathering which is assembled on the stage to celebrate the inheritance of 2,000,000 pounds at 11 p.m., should the heir live that long.

Along with murder and ghosts lurking in the background, the cast is completed by the scheming and clever Maurice Mullins, played by Ronald Christiansen.

Legend has it that within ten days following a murder in the theater a mute woman will appear on the stage and speak, at which time the ghost will walk.

The cast, ably directed by faculty member Eunice Seaton (assisted by student Mary Alice Coverdale) is headed by Basil Beeson, as Sir Charles Jasper, a wealthy, quiet little man who is host to the gathered to celebrate his inheritance. Included are Lady Beatrice, his charming young wife, played by Shirley Razor; Mrs. Arthur, Beatrice's domineering dowager mother, by Sharon Girard; and a nice young man named Jimmy North, played by Frank Garcia.

Janice Sproule is cast as Miss Groze, Sir Charles' efficient secretary, Shaula Crossen portrays Mrs. Wragg, the cockney cook, and Adele Hansen is cast as the mute woman.

BRISBANE GIRL INJURED IN WRECK

Only a few more day's hospitalization will be necessary for Carol Prease, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prease, 275 San Benito road, Brisbane, following her accident here Monday.

Carol sustained abrasions and contusions on her elbows and ankles when she was struck by an automobile driven by Serge Leplat of Palo Alto while crossing the street in front of Jefferson Union high school.

Leplat was given a citation by Daly City police for failure to give a pedestrian the right of way. Carol was taken to the Junipero Serra hospital by the local police. It was reported from the hospital yesterday that she will be able to leave shortly.

DRIVING VISIBILITY

Atomic Bombs

Psychological First Aid Training Needed To Combat Mental Illness

Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense, (Monday, October 22) spiked as "dangerous malicious propaganda" reports that a large number of people will suffer lingering mental illness if California is attacked with atomic bombs.

General Robertson was discussing "mental casualties" during the weekly state-wide broadcast presented by his Sacramento headquarters. Others on the program —twenty-seventh in a series— were Deputy Director Orville R. Caldwell and Dr. E. H. Crawfis, Medical Deputy Director, State Department of Mental Hygiene.

The Office of Civil Defense program recognized there will be "mental casualties" and is preparing for them, General Robertson explained. To this end, he urged once again that each household start preparing a Civil Defense Family Plan ready for immediate operation in the event of an attack. An important component of the Family Plan, he added, should be at least one member of the household trained in "psychological first aid" to combat mental distress.

Information

Specialized information on psychological first aid, he related is available in the Medical Services Division of local Civil Defense organizations.

"First," General Robertson stated, "we must face the fact that there will be mental casualties following an atomic attack. No great number of persons are expected to become such casualties, however.

"There is no need of any person fearing that he or she will become a mental casualty—if he is prepared.

"Second, people can do much to avoid becoming mental casualties by planning, now, the role they will play during a disaster. Having a definite job to do and being trained to do that job are the best preparations anyone can make.

"Last, and probably most important: People—all of us—must learn to live with our fear and understand how to live with fear. This can best be done by realizing that each individual's chance of survival is excellent if he only learns the few simple principles of survival and applies these principles during an emergency."

Survival

The principles of survival, he added, are part of routine local Civil Defense organization and training.

Dr. Crawfis supported General Robertson's contention there is no basis for reports that widespread mental disorders can be expected.

"The experience of the English people bombed by the Germans during the last war completely bears out General Robertson," Dr. Crawfis said.

"At the start of the war, leading mental health authorities in Britain estimated there would be a tremendous increase in mental disorders among civilians. They were, fortunately, wrong.

Deputy Director Caldwell observed that much mental distress will be eliminated by the prompt arrival of Civil Defense groups at the scene of an attack.

Next week's broadcast will concern Office of Civil Defense plans to combat the danger of uncontrolled crowd hysteria flaming into panic.

Parade Planned For Westlake Festivities

Led by King and Queen Ronald Nagy and JoAnn Johnson, kiddies of the Westlake tract, dressed in sundry Halloween costumes, will participate in the Westlake Halloween parade and party Wednesday night, October 31.

King and Queen Ronald and JoAnn, attended by Patricia Deconomou and and Jester Richard Novque, will share the lead car in the parade of witches, goblins, ghosts, and other characters that comprise a Halloween affair.

The kiddies will form at Wilshire Circle at 7 p.m., march down N. Mayfair avenue, cross the highway at Belmont street, and then proceed up S. Mayfair avenue to the Westlake clubhouse.

Awaiting the children at the clubhouse, will be a Halloween party complete with all the trimmings, including ice cream, cake, and gifts.

To determine the king, queen, and attendents a contest was held at the Town and Country Super Market. By means of a bean guessing contest, the four children guessing the closest amount of beans in a jar, received the honors.

Eight inch trophy cups will be awarded the king and queen, with the queens attendent recovering a gold ID bracelet, and the Jester a silver ID bracelet.

Also they will be attired in proper costume. Chairman for the affair is Mr. Harry Bosbery.

ANCIENT INDIAN CAMPGROUND

An Indian campground believed to be from five to seven thousand years old has been discovered two miles above McNary on the Columbia River in Oregon, reports the National Automobile Club. The site is now being explored by the Smithsonian Institute.

California has water rights to 5,362,000 acre-feet annually of the Colorado River runoff.

Car Dealers Must Post Ceiling Price Regulations

New car dealers must post ceiling prices "conspicuously" by November 4, according to a new dollars-and-cents ceiling price regulation issued this week by the Office of Price Stabilization.

Homer F. Potter, San Francisco-Oakland District director, said the regulation, CPR 83, also requires retail car dealers to furnish purchasers with in invoice stating the ceiling price and certain other charges and allowances.

The posters, required to be displayed within 20 days after the October 15 effective date of the regulation, must include the car make, body style, line or series and model of each new auto offered for sale, as well as the ceiling price, Potter said.

The new regulation, the director said, gives every possible protection to buyers of new cars by spelling out all charges that enter into the seller's ceiling price.

Of importance, Potter said, is the provision prohibiting a charge for special or optional equipment unless it is so requested in writing by the purchaser.

In addition, the following practices are specifically forbidden by the regulation: requiring the customer to finance the car through any particular leading agency; requiring a trade-in; granting less than a reasonable allowance for a trade-in, and renting or leasing a new car under a rental contract with an option to buy at an agreed price which, together with the rental, is higher than the applicable ceiling price.

The new regulation also applies to wholesale sales of new cars, it was reported.

Lecture Series Slated On Postwar European Problems

Three men who lived and worked in Europe during the past year will report on the reaction to American leadership in the postwar period in Spain, Britain and France in a series of lectures scheduled to start next Thursday, October 25, on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

On consecutive Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock in the University's Education Building, the department of history, department of relations with schools and University Extension in co-operation with the Los Angeles City Schools will present Dr. Roland D. Hussey, Dr. Clinton N. Howard and Dr. George E. Mowry, professors of history on the local campus.

Their lectures replace the Institute on History formerly held annually at the University, and offer Institute credit to Los Angeles teachers, according to Dr. Robert Wilson, who has arranged the series.

The series is open to the public without charge. Dr. Brainerd Dyer, chairman of the U. C. L. A. department of history, will act as moderator at the three addresses.

Dr. Hussey will deliver next Thursday evening's address on "Spain's Reaction to American Leadership in the Postwar Period." Dr. Howard will discuss the British reaction at the November 1 event, while Dr. Mowry, a newcomer on the U. C. L. A. faculty from the University of Iowa, will discuss the French reaction in the final lecture on November 8.

Broadmoor Plans Fun & Frolic For Children

Disguised as skeletons, wild animals, witches and ghosts both the children and their parents of Broadmoor, Garden Village and Colma will preclude the Halloween party in that territory with a parade Wednesday night starting at 6:30 at the Broadmoor police station.

The colorful costumed marchers will proceed from the Annie street station, down Washington street to 88th street which will be closed off for the gigantic Halloween party scheduled to last until 9:30 p.m. Arrangements are being made for approximately 800 children and parents to enjoy this party.

Halloween games and contests together with 100 different prizes for the best costumes should make this party an attractive one for the residents of Broadmoor and vicinity. Also there will be a large variety of refreshments featuring the Halloween motif.

The Halloween festivities are under the direction of the Broadmoor police department of which Paul Schmidt is chief. The department is being assisted by 84 mothers of the Broadmoor Policeman's Boys' Club and the American Legion of Broadmoor.

Officer Don Tannehill is in charge of the parade.

Mothers of the Boys Club working on the party plans are: from the police women's matrons corps, Mrs. Mary Coppola, chairman, Mrs. M. Kirby, Mrs. W. Tubbs, Mrs. A. Heskett and Mrs. J. Johnson; and others, Mrs. C. Flanagan, Mrs. M. Gomez, Mrs. H. Sater, Mrs. D. Bolander and Mrs. W. McKee.

State Plans New $6,500,000 Freeway On Santa Cruz-San Jose Highway

Plans for a new $6,500,000 freeway along part of the Santa Cruz-San Jose Highway were made known by the California Highway Commission in Sacramento today. In stating its intention of re-routing and four-laning 6.5 miles of State Sign Route 17 between Los Gatos and Campbell, the Commission also announced that plans included declaration of this section of road as a freeway.

Other portions of State Sign Route 17 already declared as freeways include the section from Campbell to San Jose and a two-mile stretch south of Los Gatos. The latter project is already under construction.

As a result of the Commission's announcement State Highway Engineer George T. McCoy has been asked to consult with city and county authorities to determine if they wish the Commission to hold a hearing before final action is taken.

In a report to the Commission, highway engineers point out that the present traffic load far exceeds the intended capacity of the highway. Growing residential development around Los Gatos and a large amount of tourist traffic between Santa Cruz and the Bay area are adding to the problem.

Weekend counts during the summer months already exceed 20,000 cars a day. State traffic experts predict increases of as much as 150 per cent by 1970.

Adding to the congestion are numerous private driveways and county roads which intersect the road north of Los Gatos.

Traffic surveys show that most accidents occur at these intersections, particularly at the junction of State Route 42 with State Sign Route 17 in Los Gatos. Although not excessive, accident rates are still slightly above the state average for this type of road.

The Santa Cruz-San Jose Highway was originally built by the State in 1916. It has been improved several times since that date.

Further increase in traffic is almost certain to result from industrial developments now slated for the Los Gatos area.

Broadmoor Cops Set Record For Recovery

Setting a record for fast action, Officer Raymond Savage of the Broadmoor police department retrieved within 45 minutes a taxicab reported stolen by San Francisco police Tuesday morning.

Officer Savage chased the taxicab down several Broadmoor streets before he finally ran it into the curb on 88th street. He arrested the driver, George Harvey Flanagan, 2824 Summit street, Oakland, who was later turned over to San Francisco police.

According to Police Chief Paul Schmidt, the taxicab was stolen on Market street while the driver was in a store getting change. He had left the motor running and Flanagan came along and drove it away.

Mayor Robinson's Re-election Campaign Based On Performance

Stressing the fact that "performance—not promises" was the issue in the campaign, Mayor Robinson swung into the final two weeks of his re-election drive with indorsements and pledges of support "snowballing into avalanche proportions," his headquarters declared.

Mayor Robinson himself, in a radio broadcast over KGO Monday night, reported to the voters on many of the subjects not previously covered in his speeches.

"I am waging my re-election campaign solely on the record," Mayor Robinson declared. "In this way you may judge on the record whether or not I have produced results and made ours a greater city for us all to love and enjoy.

"I have no intention of entering a 'promising' contest. I'll leave that to others—who seem intent on assuring you, with a straight face, they will give you the moon with a string around it, at less cost!"

Mayor Robinson showed just what he and his administration had accomplished on traffic and parking, on taxation and budget cutting, on port betterment and shipbuilding, on tidelands reclamation, on public and private housing, on crime control and the narcotic menace, on reduction of fire insurance premiums and on many other problems.

"On taxation," said Mayor Robinson, "we know the cost of everything we buy and the cost of things that must be done have gone up. Notwithstanding this fact, I have held the city budget requests to the minimum.

City Budget

"In the four years I have been Mayor I have trimmed city budgets by $32,464,379. Last year, I demanded specifically that all departments hold their expenditures down to the minimum—and then proceeded to cut from the city budget more than $11,000,000. This program paved the way for a 10-cent reduction in the current year's tax rate."

Then on Tuesday, four neighborhood leaders, in a forum over KYA, detailed the vast improvements in transit, parking and traffic handling in their and every other district in the city.

The vast majority of organized labor unions have emphatically indorsed Mayor Robinson for re-election, it was stressed in another program this week.

Contest Winners Are Announced

The morning session first grade at the Thornton school and the third and fourth grade class at the Jefferson elementary school were the winners of the membership drive of the Colma Parent-Teacher Association.

These two classes brought in the largest percentage of Parent-Teacher association members during the first two weeks of October, the time of the contest. Although the contest has now closed it is emphasized that the membership drive of the organization is continuing for the rest of this month.

Each of these classes will receive an award of $5.00 to be spent in any way that the class desires.

Mrs. Edward Dennis is chairman of the drive assisted by Mrs. Warner Zacher and Mrs. Claude Newman. The winning Thornton school class is taught by Mrs. Hazel Colwell and Mrs. Ann Gray is instructor of the winning class at the Jefferson elementary school.

More than 170 new members have been signed up to date.
